

National Intelligence Daily

Friday 15 April 1983

Top Secret

CPAS NID 83-089.IX

15 April 1983

Copy 281

Top	Secret

25X1

25X1

25X1

Contents

Central America: Efforts at Dialogue	1
Western Europe-Middle East: Support for US Initiative	3
Suriname: Domestic Policy Program	4
Japan-USSR: Espionage Disclosures	5
Saudi Arabia: Budget Deficit	8
pecial Analyses

PLO: Marking Time 10

Mexico: Economic and Political Trends 13

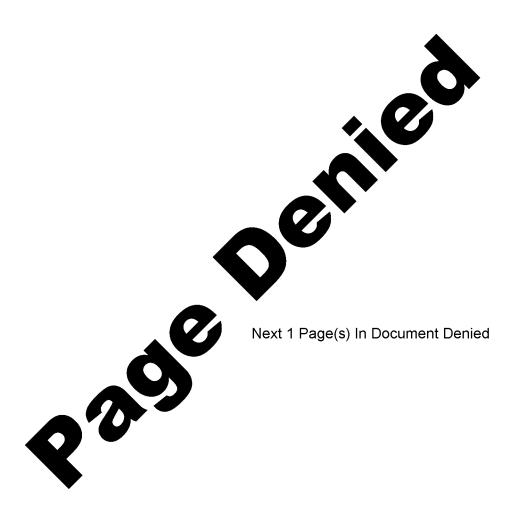

Top Secret

15 April 1983

25X1 25X1

CENTRAL AMERICA: Efforts at Dialogue The "Contadora" Foreign Ministers from Panama, Mexico, Colombia, and Venezuela apparently have made limited progress in promoting a dialogue, but the Central Americans still seem to be at odds over several key issues. A Venezuelan official has announced that the five Central American states will meet in Panama next week, with the Contadora ministers as observers. The meeting is intended to produce an agenda for a subsequent multilateral gathering, with the presence and role of observers still to be determined. Nicaragua's reaction to the visit of the Foreign Ministers is unknown. Recent Sandinista communiques issued before the visit, however, insisted on direct bilateral talks. They also emphasized the withdrawal of insurgent forces from Nicaragua is an essential precondition to any peace process in the region. The Contadora group is endorsing bilateral talks as a means of inducing Nicaragua to attend a regional meeting, a tactic supported by Costa Rica. According to US Embassy officials, however, both Guatemala and Honduras have reiterated to the visiting ministers their opposition to bilateral meetings. Salvadoran Foreign Minister Chavez Mena says his government has agreed in principle to a regional meeting under Contadora sponsorship. He also indicated El Salvador would participate in bilateral discussions with Nicaragua, a major departure from its previous position. Comment: The announcement of the meeting in Panama may be premature. Although the Central Americans were generally impressed by the willingness of the four Contadora ministers to listen to individual concerns, they appear more deeply divided than ever over accommodating Nicaragua's demands for bilateral meetings. El Salvador's apparent concession may reflect a desire to improve its image and to obtain an equal concession from Nicaragua. The Salvadorans—as well as the Hondurans—would demand clear quarantees of Sandinista willingness to participate in a regional meeting before holding bilateral talks. P		Top Secret
The "Contadora" Foreign Ministers from Panama, Mexico, Colombia, and Venezuela apparently have made limited progress in promoting a dialogue, but the Central Americans still seem to be at odds over several key issues. A Venezuelan official has announced that the five Central American states will meet in Panama next week, with the Contadora ministers as observers. The meeting is intended to produce an agenda for a subsequent multiliateral gathering, with the presence and role of observers still to be determined. Nicaragua's reaction to the visit of the Foreign Ministers is unknown. Recent Sandinista communiques issued before the visit, however, insisted on direct bilateral talks. They also emphasized the withdrawal of insurgent forces from Nicaragua is an essential precondition to any peace process in the region. 25X The Contadora group is endorsing bilateral talks as a means of inducing Nicaragua to attend a regional meeting, a tactic supported by Costa Rica. According to US Embassy officials, however, both Guatemala and Honduras have reiterated to the visiting ministers their opposition to bilateral meetings. 25X Salvadoran Foreign Minister Chavez Mena says his government has agreed in principle to a regional meeting under Contadora sponsorship. He also indicated El Salvador would participate in bilateral discussions with Nicaragua, a major departure from its previous position. Comment: The announcement of the meeting in Panama may be premature. Although the Central Americans were generally impressed by the willingness of the four Contadora ministers to listen to individual concerns, they appear more deeply divided than ever over accommodating Nicaragua's demands for bilateral meetings. El Salvador's apparent concession may reflect a desire to improve its image and to obtain an equal concession from Nicaragua. The Salvadorans—as well as the Hondurans—would demand clear guarantees of Sandinista willingness to participate in a regional meeting before holding bilateral talks. Pressure to gain such	•		25X1
The "Contadora" Foreign Ministers from Panama, Mexico, Colombia, and Venezuela apparently have made limited progress in promoting a dialogue, but the Central Americans still seem to be at odds over several key issues. A Venezuelan official has announced that the five Central American states will meet in Panama next week, with the Contadora ministers as observers. The meeting is intended to produce an agenda for a subsequent multiliateral gathering, with the presence and role of observers still to be determined. Nicaragua's reaction to the visit of the Foreign Ministers is unknown. Recent Sandinista communiques issued before the visit, however, insisted on direct bilateral talks. They also emphasized the withdrawal of insurgent forces from Nicaragua is an essential precondition to any peace process in the region. 25X The Contadora group is endorsing bilateral talks as a means of inducing Nicaragua to attend a regional meeting, a tactic supported by Costa Rica. According to US Embassy officials, however, both Guatemala and Honduras have reiterated to the visiting ministers their opposition to bilateral meetings. 25X Salvadoran Foreign Minister Chavez Mena says his government has agreed in principle to a regional meeting under Contadora sponsorship. He also indicated El Salvador would participate in bilateral discussions with Nicaragua, a major departure from its previous position. Comment: The announcement of the meeting in Panama may be premature. Although the Central Americans were generally impressed by the willingness of the four Contadora ministers to listen to individual concerns, they appear more deeply divided than ever over accommodating Nicaragua's demands for bilateral meetings. El Salvador's apparent concession may reflect a desire to improve its image and to obtain an equal concession from Nicaragua. The Salvadorans—as well as the Hondurans—would demand clear guarantees of Sandinista willingness to participate in a regional meeting before holding bilateral talks. Pressure to gain such
Colombia, and Venezuela apparently have made limited progress in promoting a dialogue, but the Central Americans still seem to be at odds over several key issues. A Venezuelan official has announced that the five Central American states will meet in Panama next week, with the Contadora ministers as observers. The meeting is intended to produce an agenda for a subsequent multilateral gathering, with the presence and role of observers still to be determined. Nicaragua's reaction to the visit of the Foreign Ministers is unknown. Recent Sandinista communiques issued before the visit, however, insisted on direct bilateral talks. They also emphasized the withdrawal of insurgent forces from Nicaragua is an essential precondition to any peace process in the region. The Contadora group is endorsing bilateral talks as a means of inducing Nicaragua to attend a regional meeting, a tactic supported by Costa Rica. According to US Embassy officials, however, both Guatemala and Honduras have reiterated to the visiting ministers their opposition to bilateral meetings. Salvadoran Foreign Minister Chavez Mena says his government has agreed in principle to a regional meeting under Contadora sponsorship. He also indicated El Salvador would participate in bilateral discussions with Nicaragua, a major departure from its previous position. Comment: The announcement of the meeting in Panama may be premature. Although the Central Americans were generally impressed by the willingness of the four Contadora ministers to listen to individual concerns, they appear more deeply divided than ever over accommodating Nicaragua's demands for bilateral meetings. El Salvador's apparent concession may reflect a desire to improve its image and to obtain an equal concession from Nicaragua. The Salvadorans—as well as the Hondurans—would demand clear guarantees of Sandinista willingness to participate in a regional meeting before holding bilateral talks. Pressure to gain such	CENTRAL AMERICA: Efforts at Dialogue
A Venezuelan official has announced that the five Central American states will meet in Panama next week, with the Contadora ministers as observers. The meeting is intended to produce an agenda for a subsequent multilateral gathering, with the presence and role of observers still to be determined. Nicaragua's reaction to the visit of the Foreign Ministers is unknown. Recent Sandinista communiques issued before the visit, however, insisted on direct bilateral talks. They also emphasized the withdrawal of insurgent forces from Nicaragua is an essential precondition to any peace process in the region. The Contadora group is endorsing bilateral talks as a means of inducing Nicaragua to attend a regional meeting, a tactic supported by Costa Rica. According to US Embassy officials, however, both Guatemala and Honduras have reiterated to the visiting ministers their opposition to bilateral meetings. Salvadoran Foreign Minister Chavez Mena says his government has agreed in principle to a regional meeting under Contadora sponsorship. He also indicated El Salvador would participate in bilateral discussions with Nicaragua, a major departure from its previous position. Comment: The announcement of the meeting in Panama may be premature. Although the Central Americans were generally impressed by the willingness of the four Contadora ministers to listen to individual concerns, they appear more deeply divided than ever over accommodating Nicaragua's demands for bilateral meetings. El Salvador's apparent concession may reflect a desire to improve its image and to obtain an equal concession from Nicaragua. The Salvadorans—as well as the Hondurans—would demand clear guarantees of Sandinista willingness to participate in a regional meeting before holding bilateral talks. Pressure to gain such guarantees would fall on Mexico, the Sandinistas' only suppoporter in	The "Contadora" Foreign Ministers from Panama,	Mexico,
American states will meet in Panama next week, with the Contadora ministers as observers. The meeting is intended to produce an agenda for a subsequent multilateral gathering, with the presence and role of observers still to be determined. 25X Nicaragua's reaction to the visit of the Foreign Ministers is unknown. Recent Sandinista communiques issued before the visit, however, insisted on direct bilateral talks. They also emphasized the withdrawal of insurgent forces from Nicaragua is an essential precondition to any peace process in the region. 25X The Contadora group is endorsing bilateral talks as a means of inducing Nicaragua to attend a regional meeting, a tactic supported by Costa Rica. According to US Embassy officials, however, both Guatemala and Honduras have reiterated to the visiting ministers their opposition to bilateral meetings. 25X Salvadoran Foreign Minister Chavez Mena says his government has agreed in principle to a regional meeting under Contadora sponsorship. He also indicated El Salvador would participate in bilateral discussions with Nicaragua, a major departure from its previous position. 25X Comment: The announcement of the meeting in Panama may be premature. Although the Central Americans were generally impressed by the willingness of the four Contadora ministers to listen to individual concerns, they appear more deeply divided than ever over accommodating Nicaragua's demands for bilateral meetings. 25X El Salvador's apparent concession may reflect a desire to improve its image and to obtain an equal concession from Nicaragua. The Salvadorans—as well as the Hondurans—would demand clear guarantees of Sandinista willingness to participate in a regional meeting before holding bilateral talks. Pressure to gain such guarantees would fall on Mexico, the Sandinistas' only suppporter in	promoting a dialogue, but the Central Americans still se	d progress in eem to be at	25X1
Nicaragua's reaction to the visit of the Foreign Ministers is unknown. Recent Sandinista communiques issued before the visit, however, insisted on direct bilateral talks. They also emphasized the withdrawal of insurgent forces from Nicaragua is an essential precondition to any peace process in the region. The Contadora group is endorsing bilateral talks as a means of inducing Nicaragua to attend a regional meeting, a tactic supported by Costa Rica. According to US Embassy officials, however, both Guatemala and Honduras have reiterated to the visiting ministers their opposition to bilateral meetings. 25X Salvadoran Foreign Minister Chavez Mena says his government has agreed in principle to a regional meeting under Contadora sponsorship. He also indicated El Salvador would participate in bilateral discussions with Nicaragua, a major departure from its previous position. 25X Comment: The announcement of the meeting in Panama may be premature. Although the Central Americans were generally impressed by the willingness of the four Contadora ministers to listen to individual concerns, they appear more deeply divided than ever over accommodating Nicaragua's demands for bilateral meetings. El Salvador's apparent concession may reflect a desire to improve its image and to obtain an equal concession from Nicaragua. The Salvadorans—as well as the Hondurans—would demand clear guarantees of Sandinista willingness to participate in a regional meeting before holding bilateral talks. Ressure to gain such guarantees would fall on Mexico, the Sandinistas' only suppporter in	American states will meet in Panama next week, with the ministers as observers. The meeting is intended to programme agenda for a subsequent multilateral gathering, with the	the Contadora oduce an	25X1
The Contadora group is endorsing bilateral talks as a means of inducing Nicaragua to attend a regional meeting, a tactic supported by Costa Rica. According to US Embassy officials, however, both Guatemala and Honduras have reiterated to the visiting ministers their opposition to bilateral meetings. Salvadoran Foreign Minister Chavez Mena says his government has agreed in principle to a regional meeting under Contadora sponsorship. He also indicated El Salvador would participate in bilateral discussions with Nicaragua, a major departure from its previous position. Comment: The announcement of the meeting in Panama may be premature. Although the Central Americans were generally impressed by the willingness of the four Contadora ministers to listen to individual concerns, they appear more deeply divided than ever over accommodating Nicaragua's demands for bilateral meetings. El Salvador's apparent concession may reflect a desire to improve its image and to obtain an equal concession from Nicaragua. The Salvadorans—as well as the Hondurans—would demand clear guarantees of Sandinista willingness to participate in a regional meeting before holding bilateral talks. Pressure to gain such guarantees would fall on Mexico, the Sandinistas' only suppporter in	Nicaragua's reaction to the visit of the Foreign Minunknown. Recent Sandinista communiques issued before however, insisted on direct bilateral talks. They also en withdrawal of insurgent forces from Nicaragua is an essential talks.	ore the visit, nphasized the	25X1 has agreed in principle to a regional meeting under Contadora sponsorship. He also indicated El Salvador would participate in bilateral discussions with Nicaragua, a major departure from its previous position. Comment: The announcement of the meeting in Panama may be premature. Although the Central Americans were generally impressed by the willingness of the four Contadora ministers to listen to individual concerns, they appear more deeply divided than ever over accommodating Nicaragua's demands for bilateral meetings. El Salvador's apparent concession may reflect a desire to improve its image and to obtain an equal concession from Nicaragua. The Salvadorans—as well as the Hondurans—would demand clear guarantees of Sandinista willingness to participate in a regional meeting before holding bilateral talks. Pressure to gain such guarantees would fall on Mexico, the Sandinistas' only suppporter in	The Contadora group is endorsing bilateral talks as inducing Nicaragua to attend a regional meeting, a tact by Costa Rica. According to US Embassy officials, how Guatemala and Honduras have reiterated to the visiting	tic supported vever. both	25X1 premature. Although the Central Americans were generally impressed by the willingness of the four Contadora ministers to listen to individual concerns, they appear more deeply divided than ever over accommodating Nicaragua's demands for bilateral meetings. El Salvador's apparent concession may reflect a desire to improve its image and to obtain an equal concession from Nicaragua. The Salvadorans—as well as the Hondurans—would demand clear guarantees of Sandinista willingness to participate in a regional meeting before holding bilateral talks. Pressure to gain such guarantees would fall on Mexico, the Sandinistas' only suppporter in	has agreed in principle to a regional meeting under Cor sponsorship. He also indicated El Salvador would partio bilateral discussions with Nicaragua, a major departure	ntadora icipate in	25 X ′ improve its image and to obtain an equal concession from Nicaragua. The Salvadorans—as well as the Hondurans—would demand clear guarantees of Sandinista willingness to participate in a regional meeting before holding bilateral talks. Pressure to gain such guarantees would fall on Mexico, the Sandinistas' only supporter in	premature. Although the Central Americans were generally the willingness of the four Contadora ministers to list individual concerns, they appear more deeply divided the	ally impressed sten to than ever over	25 X 1 improve its image and to obtain an equal concession from The Salvadorans—as well as the Hondurans—would deguarantees of Sandinista willingness to participate in a meeting before holding bilateral talks. Pressure to gain guarantees would fall on Mexico, the Sandinistas' only sandinistas' only sandinistas'.	om Nicaragua. emand clear regional such	25 X
25.71	the immediate area.

Top Secret

Top	Secret

WESTERN EUROPE-MIDDLE EAST: Support for US Initiative

The UK, West Germany, and Italy continue to support the US Middle East peace initiative despite the Jordanian Government's statement on future peace negotiations.
A senior British Foreign Office official has indicated his government remains convinced that the US initiative is still viable and that it will oppose any attempt by other EC members to develop a West European alternative. He added, however, that there are no signs of any EC interest in pursuing such a course.
The official also noted the UK's belief, based on Foreign Secretary Pym's conversations this week with Arab leaders, that the US has to take quick action on troop withdrawals from Lebanon to improve its credibility in the region. Without such action, London believes Arab moderates will not push the PLO to reverse its opposition to Jordanian participation in peace talks with Israel. According to the official, King Hussein told Pym that his government's announcement had been designed to shock both the US and PLO moderates into moving more decisively.
A West German Foreign Ministry official has said Bonn also continues to back the US initiatives because there is no realistic alternative. According to a senior Italian Foreign Ministry official, Rome hopes the combination of the PLO's desire to avoid domination by its more radical elements and the stark choices arising from Jordan's decision will prompt the Palestinian leadership to become more flexible.
Comment : The French and the other West Europeans are likely to share the British, West German, and Italian views. As a result, they probably would not now support measures that would complicate US peace efforts. If anti-Western sentiment in the Middle East grows, or if the USSR launches its own initiative, the West Europeans might make

Top Secret

15 April 1983

25X1

25X1

25X1

25X1

25X1

25X1

25X1

a dramatic gesture to protect their interests in the region.

Ton	Secret
100	OCCICL

2	\boldsymbol{L}	V	1
_	U	Л

25X1

25X1

25X1

25X1

25X1

25X1

SURINAME: Domestic Policy Program

The regime is preparing a program that is likely to introduce some radical policy shifts, but it probably will meet with little domestic opposition.
The new policies will be announced on 1 May, according to the state-controlled press. The US Embassy reports the regime intends to reorient the education system by revising the country's history, launching a six-month "literacy" campaign, and giving more attention to students from the lower class.
influential radicals—primarily in the Revolutionary People's Party—are urging the government to nationalize foreign bauxite operations as well as banks and insurance companies. In addition, rumors are circulating in Paramaribo that the government may soon require the repatriation or taxation of assets held abroad.
The Embassy believes that many Surinamers are already resigned to a changed system and that the regime faces few obstacles in consolidating its revolution. Some Surinamers hope, however, that Prime Minister Alibux's party—the Progressive Workers' and Farmers' Union—will adopt pragmatic economic and social policies once it grows tired of radical approaches.
Comment : The regime previously has been slow to put its plans nto effect. The latest program also is likely to take time getting off the ground. Nevertheless, the fading of domestic opposition considerably mproves the ability of the controlling radical minority to nstitutionalize its power.
Nationalization of the bauxite industry would aggravate economic problems because the government lacks the technical expertise and personnel to manage its operations. Alibux's party, which staffs the economic ministries, reportedly opposes such a move. The party probably will prevail, unless President Bouterese—who tends to make impulsive decisions—decides to view nationalization as appropriate retaliation for alleged Dutch and US meddling in Surinamese affairs.

Top Secret

15 April 1983

T	op	Secret

25X1

25X1

25X1

25X1

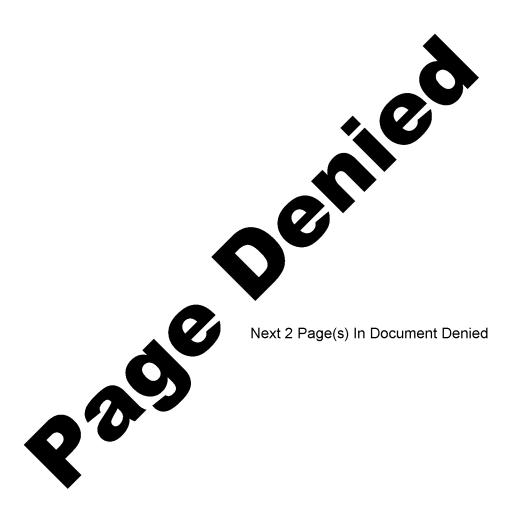

25X1

JAPAN-USSR: Espionage Disclosures

The official response in Tokyo to press reports of Soviet agents in the government has been low key, although there is concern about future public reaction.
Japanese newspapers, citing extracts of a manuscript prepared by KGB defector Stanislav Levchenko, have named eight prominent Japanese, including a former Liberal Democratic Party Labor Minister, as Soviet agents. The newspapers claimed the KGB had another 23 agents in the Foreign Ministry, within the intelligence community, and among politicians, although no names were given.
Foreign Ministry officials have said publicly that their investigations had uncovered no evidence to support Levchenko's charges. According to other high-level government officials, however, the investigations are continuing.
Comment : Tokyo probably will continue its tactic of casting doubt on the charges while suggesting it is pushing ahead with an investigation. The issue, however, could be embarrassing for all those connected with the charges.
Many of those named were members of or connected to leftwing opposition parties. At the same time, the ruling party is accused of formerly having had a Soviet agent as a cabinet minister.
Levchenko's complete manuscript will be available to the public next week. If popular reaction builds and focuses on Soviet penetration of the government, some high-level officials, perhaps in the security services, may have to resign. The Liberal Democrats, who face important local elections on 24 April and national elections this summer, will be particularly eager to avoid a scandal.

Top Secret

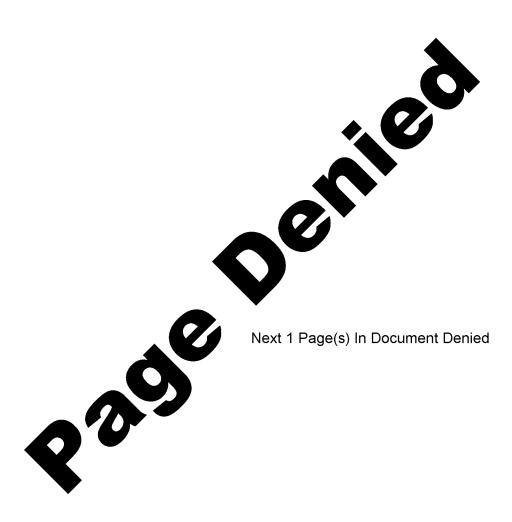

15 April 1983

15 April 1983

25X1

8

	Top Secret
		25X1
Special Analysis
PLO: Marking Time
_
The PLO is holding firm to its demands for d Middle East negotiations and the creation of a Pa PLO consensus behind these demands seems st to make any reversal of the position highly unlike	alestinian state. The trong enough for now	25X1
	··· / ·
PLO chief Arafat's failure to obtain support to organization for the agreement he reached with providing for Jordanian representation of the Padamaged his credibility. There is a perception exclosest advisers that he blundered by accepting	King Hussein llestinians has /en among Arafat's without prior assurances from his colleagues that	t they would go along	0EV4
with the deal.		25X1 25X1
Arafat's position as Fatah and PLO leader is his freedom of action has been reduced. He will than in the past to adhere to the guidelines estal National Council and Executive Committee. This ability to take new initiatives in support of a nego Palestinian issue.	be forced even more blished by the PLO's will diminish his	25X1
It is now clear that even PLO moderates are compromise on their demand for a separate Pale recognition of the PLO as the sole representative. They rejected the concept of a negotiating team non-PLO Palestinians even though the PLO woul voice in selecting the Palestinians. The PLO conshardened in support of minimum demands that I the US consider unacceptable as a basis for talk	estinian state and e of the Palestinians. of Jordanian and ld be given a major sensus thus has Jordan, Israel, and	25X1
In the near term the PLO is unlikely to chang Although Arafat and his associates apparently ha own for achieving their objectives, they are unwil organization—and perhaps their lives—for the un	ave no plan of their ling to risk their negotiations in which they are not participants.	TOOT CATTER OF THE	25 X 1
_	continued
	••••••

	i op Secret
		25 X 1
Arefet and his advisors will try to defloot exitic	sions has blooming
Arafat and his advisers will try to deflect critic	ism by blaming
Jordan, the US, and Israel for the breakdown in the Hussein. They also will insight that they are noting in Hussein. They also will insist that they are acting i	in strict accordance with the Fez declaration of last September, which	reattirmed the	0EV1
PLO's key role and the Palestinians' right to an inc	dependent state.	25 X 1
Reaction in the West Bank
The Palestinians in the West Rank appear to	arraa that tha 110
The Palestinians in the West Bank appear to a	agree that the US and Jordan are responsible for the collapse of the	Aratat-Hussein talks. Press commentary and statements by local	notables are criticizing the US for failing to push Israel into mal	King concessions.
Hussein's withdrawal from the talks is viewed as of the PLO to compromise.	only a tactic to force	25 X 1
the PLO to compromise.		20/1
Some West Bank moderates are more critical	of the DLO
however, and their viewpoint may become more w	of the PLO, realities of the situation begin to sink in.	ndespread as the	25X1
realities of the situation begin to slink in.		25 X 1 20/(1
Increasing numbers of West Bankers and Gaz	ans are likely to conclude the PLO is more interested in its surviva	I than in advancing Palestinian political goals. The West Bank notable	es are divided among themselves, however, on how to approach	the peace process.
	• •	25 X 1
None of the notables has the stature to organ	ize an effective political movement or to step forward as a credible	le representative in	Ī negotiations involving Jordan and Israel. Fear of b	eing th e target of a radical Palestinian hit squad also will inhibit involv	rement.	25 X 1
Relations with Amman
PLO relations with Jordan will be strained des	pite statements by both sides calling for close ties. Recriminations ov	er the collapse of	05)(4
the talks will create animosity.		25 X 1 a a mAinnea al
	continued

indized copy represed for release zer mezice : cirk rez	1 0010100 11 0002000 10002
	Top Secret
	778 33313

25X1

25X1

25X1

25X1

25X1

25X1

The Jordanians almost certainly will tighten security measures to assure controls over PLO activities in Jordan. They probably will expel some PLO officials allowed to reside in Jordan while ties were improving.
Relations will deteriorate if Jordan closes the border with the West Bank. Such a move would be intended to symbolize the devolution to the PLO of all responsibility for the future of the West Bank and Gaza. The Jordanians would claim the PLO had to assume responsibility for any human suffering caused by the consequent halting of emigration by West Bankers displaced by Israeli settlements.
If the stalemate in the talks continues, PLO radicals are certain to increase efforts to attack Israeli targets from Jordan. Jordanian interdiction efforts will contribute to PLO-Jordanian tensions.
Prospects
If an Arab summit proposed by Morocco's King Hassan is held in the near future, it is unlikely to alter previous declarations. Some Arab moderates will try to persuade Arafat to reach an agreement with Jordan, but Arafat would rather face their disapproval and diminished support from West Bank and Gaza Palestinians than risk new divisions within the PLO.
Arafat and the PLO majority still favor the concept of negotiations.
Tiogotiations.
If talks between Arafat and Hussein resume, they probably will be limited to general discussions of bilateral affairs. A freeze on settlements might be enough of a positive signal for Arafat to resume talks with Hussein on a joint negotiating strategy.
Nonetheless, Arafat probably would still be unwilling to surrender the PLO demands for direct participation in negotiations and the ultimate creation of a Palestinian state. His position on these key issues is likely to change only in the event a stong West Bank-Gaza consensus develops in opposition to the PLO's hardline demands, or if the Arab states unite in urging the PLO to compromise.

Top Secret

T	0	p	S	e	C	r	e	t

$\Delta E V$	4
·) [Y	71

25X1

25X1

25X1

25X1

Special Analysis

MEXICO: Economic and Political Trends

Mexican economic policies, designed to ease foreign payments problems, are forcing substantial reductions in imports and production despite clear government concern to soften the impact on key interest groups. Inflation nevertheless hovers around 100 percent. Although the IMF says Mexico was in compliance with its program through March, by midyear Mexico is likely to try to persuade the IMF to modify its requirements for austerity measures. To help prevent the opposition from making large gains as a result of economic difficulties, efforts are under way to revitalize the ruling party. In dealing with the problems of the region, President de la Madrid's prominent activity on Central America is in line with his predecessor's policies.

De la Madrid's efforts to cope with foreign payments problems without badly damaging the domestic economy have yielded mixed results. External accounts have been adjusted by severely devaluing the peso and adopting an austerity program required by the IMF as a condition for help.

Greatly reduced imports have increased Mexico's trade surplus and have helped push its current account closer to balance. Nevertheless, the government has not been able to rebuild reserves or reduce debt arrearages because some capital flight continues.

Meanwhile, industrial production is off dramatically and local supplies of goods are dwindling. Because of continuing high domestic demand, inflation remains high.

The President, however, has made concessions to powerful interest groups that tend to temper the austerity program, backing away from the spirit of the IMF agreement. Although investment in the public sector has been substantially reduced, the government work force has grown and large subsidies remain on at least 300 basic consumer goods and services. Moreover, the nationalized banks have kept interest rates significantly below the inflation rate.

Problems in Building Confidence

The government's cuts in spending, multiplying bankruptcies and unemployment, and the drop in oil prices have hindered restoration of public confidence, which was shaken during the troubled presidential transition. Mexicans are nervous about the future and doubt the

continued

Top Secret

15 April 1983

	Top Secret
		25 X 1
administration can restore prosperity in the near term. The	۵
President's failure to prosecute former officials accused of has increased skepticism about his commitment to change	corruption	25 X 1
The ruling party is trying to improve its own reputation build support for de la Madrid and offset criticism that the sectors are suffering most. Watchdog committees have be established to protect consumers, and others are planned corruption. Progress is being made in plans to open up the	e poorest een to monitor process on selecting candidates.	a party s	25 X 1
Although most interest groups remain quiet, organized appears increasingly restless. The unions have not abando four-month-old solidarity pact among labor, government, a management, but recent increases in milk and gasoline prompted demands to implement rent controls and to move forward—or increase—a pay raise promised for this summed Madrid is likely to try to mollify labor by advancing the dat	oned the and ices have ve ner. De la wage hike.		25 X 1
Despite the recession, most businessmen appear willing de la Madrid time. Government acquiescence to demands emergency wage hikes, however, would rekindle fears of a former President Lopez Portillo's antibusiness policies.	for	25 X 1
Deepening Financial Problems
Many international bankers believe de la Madrid is not sufficiently firm austerity measures. Because of delays in a the $5 billion commercial credit and overwhelming legal pr progress in addressing debt-service problems has been slo City has asked its creditors for a second extension—to 15 of the moratorium on repayment of principal.	rranging oblems, ow. Mexico	25 X 1
The private sector has been unsuccessful in reducing it debts, but the government plans to establish a subsidized rate aimed at rescuing at least the more prosperous eleme insolvency outside Mexico. Many foreign creditors are likely to reschedule the private debt, rather than continue demar repayments that many firms are unable to make. Agreementikely, however, until the complicated process of reschedulic much larger public-sector debt is completed.	exchange ents from y to agree nding nt is not	25X1
	continued	20/(1

15 April 1983

25X1

14

25X1

Weak world demand for oil is likely to continue to erode Mexican oil revenues, which probably will fall as much as $3 billion below last year. Returns on natural gas exports are likely to drop $100-150 million from last year even if prices are lowered to induce US customers to restore some of their recent large cuts in purchases.

25X1

De la Madrid will be likely to seek adjustments in IMF constraints on overseas borrowing, the public-sector deficit, and monetary policy. Although the IMF probably will agree to respond favorably to some changes, international bankers probably will be reluctant to provide additional credit or to offer relief on interest obligations. Mexico, consequently, is likely to ask Western nations and international financial organizations to increase their lending.

25X1

Without cooperation from international financiers, de la Madrid may expand the current moratorium on principal payments to include interest obligations as well. Opposition leftist politicians recently have demanded such action.

25X1

Policy on Central America

The spreading violence in Central America has prompted de la Madrid to become more prominently active in regional affairs. In contrast to Foreign Minister Sepulveda's unheralded role in the original "Contadora" meeting, the President held several well-publicized talks last week with leaders of neighboring countries. Mexican criticisms of US policies as misguided have been coupled with public expressions of continuing strong support for Nicaragua.

25X1

Mexico is unlikely to end its economic aid to the region. US Embassy officials indicate that, while financial difficulties may force cutbacks, the joint Mexican-Venezuelan oil facility probably will be renewed this summer.

25X1

Top Secret

	for Release 2011/02/03 : CIA-RDP85T01094R000200010092-3
Top Secret		05.74
		25X1
•		- 10 July 10
	- 1987년 1987년 1일 대한 시민 전통은 분통한 동생 경기 (1982년 1987년 1987년
		S X
	그는 그는 내내 내일 나왔다. 불에 됐는지 하다는 회의 하지만 맞추는 이 호함
	그는 그리다 이래를 활동하였다. 그리는 시골에 하다 일은 당되기	*
	그 이 그는 그를 잃었다. 첫째 이 모이는 그래 게 하나도 말하
있는 경우 이 사람들은 경우 이 경우를 받는 것이다. 중요한 사람들은 기계를 받는 것이다.
	그 이 그는 가를 깨끗하게 되었는데 하는 그리면 없다고 했다고요?
	그는 그는 그는 사람이 얼마를 받았다. 그는 그는 그 그 그 그 없는데 그는 그를 다 살아 없다.
	그는 그는 그리고 한다고 하다 가는 그리고 하는데 그리고 하는데 되었다.
9 (1941) - 1 (1941)	그는 그는 그는 얼마나왔다면 얼마를 하는 것이 되었다. 그는 것이다.
	그는 그 이 생각들은 무료를 하는 이 사이 되어 있다. 이번 모든
	그 그는 이 지원 살림 회사 가장을 보지 않는데 그 그 그 사람들이 하는데
	그는 사람이 이 일반 생각에 잃어가 살아가는 사는 가는 것을 하는데
병사 (1995년) 발생 전 기업 (1995년)
	그는 이 전쟁 시대로 선택하다 나는 이렇다는 이번 때문에 되는 이 사람들을 가려
	그는 그 그는 사람들들은 활동하다는 항도로 전혀 온 사용하였다.
	그는 그는 이 사이지 않아야 한 바람이 아니는 이 사람들이 되었다. 점점 상
	그는 그는 그리는 아이들을 맞았다면 되는 그는 그는 그는 그는 그는 그는 것 같다.
		₩
		&
(1984년) 전환 (1985년) 전 (1985년) 1987년 - 1987년 - 1987년 1987년 - 1987년	는 사람들이 되었다. 그런 프랑프램 전환된 경상 등록 한 전 전 등록 보고 있다면 함께 되었다. 그 사람들이 되었다.
	그리는 그리지 않아왔다. 이번 그리는
9 년부 (17) 18 등의 - 전 1 - 1 - 1 - 1 - 1 - 1 - 1 - 1 - 1 -	그는 그는 그리는 사람들이 가장 그렇게 하는 것이 되었다.
	그는 이 사용 하는 바로 가득하고 함께 하고 있다. 그는 사용이 하는데
Top Secret
Secret 10b Secret	되는 그 이 그 그리는 지속했을듯하셔요? 그런 그는 말이 그리는 그리고 있다.	